

ARREST MAY CLEAR UP RECENT OFFICE ROBBERIES

In the arrest of John Hartzell, who achieved distinction by being charged with the theft of the famous Egyptian amulet from the Chicago University collection at the Field Museum a year ago, Captain Halpin believes he has found the man responsible for the burglarizing of several dental offices during the past few months.

Hartzell was arrested Tuesday afternoon by Officers O'Keefe and Trant of the detective bureau in connection with the robbery of three dental offices at 736 W. 63d street Sunday night.

The offices robbed were those of Doctors E. O. Sullivan, I. S. Alderman and J. F. Kettler.

Dr Alderman received a telephone message on Tuesday, saying that if he wanted his tools returned he could get them by leaving $75 in an envelope in the lavatory of the "L" station at 63d and Halsted sts. Alderman objected to the sum and $50 was agreed on. The dentist then got in touch with the detective bureau. O'Keefe and Trant were sent out. At their suggestion he left $1 at the place designated. Hartzell appeared and was arrested.

The suspect lives somewhere on the West Side. He was acquitted of the charge of stealing the amulet, but the police believe that they now have enough evidence to hold him to the grand jury.

Queen Mary has fired the pretty French laundress from the nineteen-year-old Prince of Wales' establishment. The charges are that she is too young and good looking. Guess that's protecting a princeling.

"So you don't approve of those London suffragets?" "I don't know much about them," replied Miss Cayenne; "but I can't help feeling that a woman who can't subdue a few men without the use of dynamite is something of a failure."

MYSTERY IN GIRL'S ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE

A veil of mystery has been thrown around the attempted suicide of Laura Karinck, 18 years old, by the refusal of the girl to talk following her restoration by the pulmotor.

She was discovered in her bedroom at 433 S. Sangamon st. shortly before noon today, overcome by gas. The discovery was made by Harry Kerr, 13, a neighbor, who smelled the fumes and notified the girl's parents. When they burst in the door of the room the girl staggered out of the house and onto the front porch, where she fell unconscious.

The pulmotor came quickly and the girl was finally resuscitated. Her parents say she has been employed at Bankes' Tea Store, 12th and Paulina streets.

They cannot account for desperate act and only throw farther mystery around it by their statement that she came home last night weeping.

"You spurn me because I am afflicted with poverty. But I tell you, proud beauty, my future is rich, though my present is poor."

"O, I'd just abhor a poor wedding present!"

WEATHER FORECAST

Probably showers tonight; Friday generally fair and cooler; moderate variable winds shifting to northerly.
